Village To Study Activating Well On Steuben Street, Start Front Street Repairs

Mayor Lyle Slocum conducted the August meeting of the Village Board Monday evening in the office of the Village Clerk at the Village Hall.

The clerk noted a $25.00 rebate was received from the comptroller for Justice cases processed in June. Charles M. Salerno, Village Attorney, in reply to a question relative to the Village policy on removal of dead trees, said no policy had been established by the Village. Mayor Slocum said the Village as a rule worked with utility linemen in removing dead trees when such trees were endangering utility lines.

The Board was told that Lee and Duane Dunning wished to purchase the Village garbage franchise from William Switzer and Mr. Salerno was asked if the franchise needed to be rebid in the event the purchase went through. Mr. Salerno advised that the procedure would be to transfer the franchise to the purchasers for the remaining three years of the present contract and then let bids for a new contract.

Approval was given for printing building permits so the Village would have complete records of any building projects going up in the future.

Approval was given for Edward Buton, superintendent of Public Works, to attend a grade 3 water treatment operators course August 23-27 in Rochester. This course had been scheduled earlier and later cancelled.

Warren G. Stiker, president of the Planning Commission, submitted his resignation from the commission. The Board accepted the resignation with regret and directed the clerk to write Mr. Stiker to that effect.

A request from the Addison Home Telephone Company for permission to bury telephone lines across the Village dump was tabled for further study.

An invitation was received from the New York Conference of Mayors for the Village officers and the clerk to attend the annual training school at the Holiday Inn, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., September 28-30 and October 1. The Board gave the clerk permission to attend if she so desired.

A thank you note was received from the Addison Volunteer Fire Department thanking the Board for their participation in the N.Y.-Penn. Convention.

No action was taken regarding a request from Lee Dunning about placing street lights on Prospect Street as the Street has not yet been formally dedicated to the Village.

Mayor Slocum reported the Village crew would work with a State Road crew on repairs to Front Street beginning on Tuesday of this week.

A reminder was issued of the ordinance existing on Village books calling for owners of vacant lots to keep grass and weeds cut. The directive keeps down the pollen content in the air during hay fever season and also helps avoid the danger of grass fires during the dry weather.

The weekly compensation of the night patrolman was increased from $25 to $35 due to his having to work longer hours since injuries to a second officer. The Board

At least one lake trout was equipped to cope with the problem of getting enough to eat. Peter Nobriza of 40 Front Street and his son Francis of South Street, were fishing Sunday evening on the Hammond post end of Keuka Lake.

At about 11:00 p. m. Pete hooked a 15 1/2 inch lake trout, using scubelles for bait. At first glance it appeared the trout had previously received a severe gash below its normal mouth. Later examination revealed that the fish sported two mouths, each complete with teeth and the bait and hook were in the lower mouth.

Note: A photo of this most unusual fish and its captor will appear in next week's edition of this publication.

Youth Recreation Program Aug. 2-7

Monday, August 2, marked the start of the fifth week of the Addison Summer Youth Recreation Program. The program, which will conclude August 21, is open to all Addison area youths in grades K-12. The program director, Francis Mallory, said that an average of 140 students participate daily in the program.

This week's program includes all types of sports including swimming. A detailed schedule is posted at the high school building. On Monday and Tuesday "Boon-doggle" instruction was given. A hike was planned for Wednesday, August 4. The week will close with a "Costume Parade" on Friday, August 6 at 1:00 p. m., and swimming on Saturday at 10:45 a. m.

The contract calls for delivery of a fully equipped 1966 Ford pumper with conventional cab. The pumper will have a 500 gallon tank and will be capable of pumping 750 gallons of water per minute. The equipment will include a built-in lighting plant, a portable pump, 1,000 feet of 2 1/2 inch hose, 400 feet of 1 1/2 inch hose, nozzles, axes etc. It will also include six raincoats, six pairs of boots and six helmets.

The Board of Directors of the Tuscarora Volunteer Fire Department, Inc., signed a contract with representatives of Ward-LaFrance of Elmira and Schultz Motor Co. of Elmira, Pa., for the purchase of a new pumper at a special meeting Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 p. m.

The new pumper will augment the 1936 GMC pumper, now in use, which was purchased 10 years ago from the Fire Department.

The price on the new vehicle was not released. Signing the contract with the Ward-LaFrance representative, George Young of Elmira and the Schultz Motor Company representative, E. W. Bowers, were T.V.D. directors Elmer Bliss, president; Larry Tucker, fire chief; David Boyer, first assistant chief; Burton Cook, secretary and Gerald Chase, treasurer.

Prefix Names Reserved For Area Herd Owners

Walter W. Plaisted, Troupsburg, will have the exclusive use of the prefix "Grovedell" and J. Norris Griley, Lindley, will have the exclusive use of the prefix "Gr-d-ley's" in naming all Registered Holstein dairy animals bred in their herds.

Use of the prefix names have been granted by Holstein-Friesian Association of America, and they also become a part of official breed records at the national headquarters in Brattleboro, Vermont.

Nearly 15,000 prefixes are reserved for Registered Holstein breeders each year. More than 38,000 are now on file for use in giving distinctive names to home-bred cattle. Reservation and use of these prefix names became an active membership requirement in 1965.

In using an exclusive prefix name for his animals, the purebred Holstein breeder establishes a "trade mark" which is used in all published information concerning the performance of his dairy animals.

The origination of prefix names often stems from farm names, family name combinations, or unique geographical or historical features of the farm operation. Thus, the exclusive nature of each prefix is preserved in selecting a "one and only" term.

Wilbur has a report that "You-the empty glass upside down." kon Husky" L. L. Towner is back after a 10,000 mile trek with a friend into the wilds of upper Canada and Alaska. It is said that he went up there with the idea of reforesting the place. But, on arrival, he discovered that the several thousands of trees that he has planted locally would, shaded, make a good road-side, barely, parking area compared to what they already have up there.

Mr. Peek wanted to be the first to show his patriotism this week in regard to the sales tax. He sold an old stray cat for 26c, to be round except for the side collected a penny tax, filled out a bill of sale listing the tax, hired a girl to file his report in triplicate (one for Rocky, one for Happy and one for Luck), bought a two cent envelope, a five cent stamp, made out a check (which cost 10c) for one cent, paid the girl a minimum wage of $1.25 and mailed his report. Total money received for the mungy cat was 26c and total expenditures amounted to $1.43 or a total cash loss on the transaction of $1.17 for being first.

Wilbur has a nine year old brother-in-law called Late Thought. Mr. Peek took Late Thought out to dinner this past weekend and the lad, wanting to do the right thing, drank his glass of water, a nut somewhere to go with each. Three times the waitress filled one.

Wilbur's thought for the week: Too much leisure time wears out like work pants after too much labor.

Foreigners In Town

by Robert G. Aldrich

Yes, there have been, are and will be foreigners in town. For example: The foreigners pictured above were here and we shall call them Milo, Bonnie, Sue and Bella. Any similarity between the names given and their real names is purely intentional.

Now, you might say that they don't look very foreign; in fact, they look very American. You would be right on both counts. Their distant ancestors probably were European, yet recent generations were born in America, and the people pictured live in Cherry Hill, New Jersey.

Obviously, your next question is: "How come you call them foreigners?" Like Will Rogers, the famous part-Cherokee once said, "My ancestors didn't come over on the Mayflower — they met the boat. Well, most of our ancestors came over on some kind of boat and therefore we are all foreigners in a promised land, which we are rapidly succeeding in turning into a barren waste of suspicion, prejudice, jealousy, gossip and hate. All of which may be turned on the family that moves into town from Texas, California, Montana, New Jersey or even from the next county.

For some weird reason it has become a traditional small-town American custom to reject anyone who hasn't at least three generations of ancestry in that town and to look off-center at the new arrival who might appear a bit different, speak with an accent and worst of all, presume to inject a new idea into the otherwise, self-satisfied atmosphere about him. The most ridiculous part of this farce is that once you are third-generation in small-town U. S. A. you can be the town drunk or village playboy but you now are a full fledged, accepted citizen.

I know something about this subject because I, like most Americans have moved about a bit. Some places ignore you completely until they have decided whether to give you the "smear treatment" or to continue to ignore you. Other small towns are more advanced and have fabricated a two-week, welcome treatment (mostly commercial); following this, you are promptly forgotten.

In the case of the foreigners pictured above who recently visited Addison as our guests: We were once foreigners in their town when they formerly lived in Pennsylvania. We were more fortunate in their town than many people who move to a new place. These people took us under their wing for as long as we lived near them and accepted us, without reservation, in sickness and in health—in fault and in favor. To them, we were citizens on arrival.

How do our small towns rate in this league? Are all new residents consigned to one of the above foreigner treatments or are they Citizens On Arrival?

He was a 32nd degree Mason and a member of the United Church in Mt. Morris where he moved in 1925.

He was married to Carolyn Wells, also of Woodhull, who died in October 1963. They celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Christmas eve in 1961. They were regular annual visitors to Woodhull on Memorial Day.

POWER For The HOUR

by Mrs. R. G. Aldrich

"Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any praise, think on these things."

—Philippians 4:8

Who is qualified or righteous enough to believe, even remotely, that he or she is capable of writing a religious column? For after all, aren't all opinions and interpretations of God's word to be considered important? Ministers devote their entire lives to reading and counseling according to their religious beliefs, inspired by the Bible.

As laymen, many may question what authority their opinions hold. But as the apostle Paul wrote in Philippians, whatsoever things are sure, lovely, and of good report, think about these things. And what better source than the Bible do we have for a guide?

As a layman, using passages of scripture for a weekly newspaper column, this will be devoted to personal thoughts in the hope that someone may find true inspirational help.

With this in mind, as the weeks progress any thoughts or disagreements will be answered as well as possible. If there are no comments it will be considered that readers are in accord with the writer's views. And the writer admits a self-searching for the right way to a better and fuller spiritual life.

Ginny Tiu And Johnny Tillotson Headline Fair At Bath Aug. 24 & 27

A preview of the type of entertainment in store for Bath this week was seen in the appearance of singer Johnny Tillotson on the "Tonight" television show this week, and may be seen on the Ed Sullivan Show Sunday night when The Ginny Tiu Family is scheduled for a guest appearance.

The Ginny Tiu Show, starring four talented youngsters from the Far East in a musical variety production, is the opening attraction at the Bath Fair. They are to perform two shows on the opening day, Tuesday, August 24, one at two p. m., for the student matinee and again for the evening performance at 8:00 p. m., as stars headlining the Al Martin Revue.

Johnny Tillotson, a versatile young singer and recording artist, whose popularity, talent and showmanship have won him acclaim in television, supper clubs and at top fairs in the country, will give two performances in Bath. He will appear as star of the second Youth Day at the Fair, with the Al Martin Revue matinee at 2:00 p. m., and again for the evening performance at 8:00 p. m., on Friday August 27.

Both of these star attractions have been selected by Fair officials for their appeal to people of all ages. The Ginny Tiu Show features Ginny, her sisters Victoria and Elizabeth and their brother Alexander. They can play piano-classical, jazz and pop, they sing, dance and do comedy routines. Their abilities are all the more remarkable because in none of them has ever taken a lesson. The Tiu clan can lay claim to being the only Chinese family which has, through several generations, manifested the uncanny ability to play piano by ear. They have entertained many notable coast-to-coast, and were elected to perform for former President Kennedy during one of his visits to Chicago.

Johnny Tillotson, a popular performer in England as well as the U. S., has been sought after for fairs because of the well-rounded type of program he gives. Always included are some of the old standards, folksongs, ballads and country numbers, most of which he has recorded, as well as a fair sprinkling of the best sellers of the day. His first million seller recording was "Poetry in Motion." His album, "It Keeps Right on A-Hurtin'" became one of the biggest selling albums of 1962.

4-H Program Helps Teens Acquire Safe And Sane Driving Habits

"Driving an automobile is one of the greatest privileges we have as American citizens," said the only girl to claim national honors last year in the 4-H Automotive program. She is Sherrel Stephens, 18, who knew what she was talking about when she won one of six $500 scholarships in competition with 31 boys and nine other girls from coast to coast. Sherrel lives in Guyman, Okla.

This program is the only one of its kind in the U. S. making an effort to reach pre-drivers. As one county extension agent remarked: "A boy or girl of 14 or 15 is hungry for information on driving. Before they reach their 16th birthday they are eager to learn. But after they get that little piece of cardboard permitting them to drive, they become instant experts."

Why? Lack of judgment necessary to cope with modern day traffic and improper driving attitude, say safety authorities. Not having the right attitude contributes up to 85 per cent of traffic accidents. Young people enrolled in the 4-H Automotive program learn about the mechanical function of the vehicle, develop the proper attitude and take part in traffic surveys before they get behind the wheel. They not only have carefully planned "lessons" but hear from experts such as automotive engineers, traffic officers, safety authorities, insurance representatives and mechanics.

Four top members in each county are eligible for a special 4-H automotive key chain. The most outstanding project in the entire state will bring the boy or girl a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago next fall. For the six best in the nation there will be $500 scholarships that can be used for college, vocational training or any kind of approved education.

Information about enrollment in the 4-H program can be obtained from the county extension agent.

First national presidential nominating convention in the U. S. was held in Baltimore in 1831.

Senator Bill Smith To Join Water Tour Saturday

Howard DeMun, Troupsburg, announces that State Senator William Smith of Big Flats, will attend the Soil and Water Conservation District Water Development tour Saturday.

The tour leaves the County Office Building, Bath, at 10:00 a. m. First stop will be the Robert Burgess farm near Thurston. Burgess has recently completed a 7½ acre pond for recreational use. Jack Kahabka, Soil Conservation Service, will explain features of the pond.

Families attending the tour should bring their picnic lunch to enjoy at the Ralph Northrup farm. Rathbone, Northrup has constructed two large ponds.

Robert McDowell, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, will present the Conservation Farmer Award to a Cooperator who has done an outstanding job of Soil and Water Conservation.

Camp Gorton Again Gets Top Rating

For the second year in a row the coveted "A" rating pennant has been awarded to Steuben Area Council's Boy Scout camp, Camp Gorton on Waneta Lake, following an inspection by representatives of the Regional Office this week. The rating places Camp Gorton among the best in the Region which includes New York, New Jersey, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

This annual inspection is based on a rating of 100 points covering campsite description and use (21 points); operating and program practices (11 points); personnel and training (17 points); camp records (6 points); health (15 points); safety (14 points); and sanitation (16 points). Of the 100 points a total of 67 of them are specially marked and must be answered in the affirmative if the camp is to receive an "A" rating.

From previous inspections over the years, a program was instituted two years ago to raise enough money to correct and expand various situations not up to peak ratings. Last year and underpass under the county road bisecting the camp was constructed and four new Troopsters on the Hill-side complete with platforms, tents, patrol table and fly, latrines and wash racks were established. This allowed Troopsters to use the property east of the highway and to expand Troopsters. This year the kitchen was expanded and both

Professor Bruce Wilkens, Cornell University, will talk to the group about developing water areas for private and commercial recreation.

Other stops on the tour will include a 175 acre lake site and large ponds on the Freeman Allen farm near Cameron.

For those interested in seeing more there will be brief stops at the 10 acre Wold Lake on land owned by Mike and Bill Weaver, also a 1 acre pond recently built for Ken Ward near Bath.

The Nature Lodge and Handicraft Lodge were expanded to take care of the increased attendance. Mr. Burns presented the coveted "A" rating banner to camp director John Petersen at the meeting of the executive board which followed the inspection of camp. This banner will now be flown with the American flag for the rest of the 1965 camp season.

During the Board meeting in the Memorial Lodge at Camp Gorton, vice chairman of the Council Organization and Extension Committee, Fritz Kahl, of Corning reported the registration of three new units this month — Explorer Post 35 of Cohocton; Pack 27 of Addison and Troop 53 of Corning.

Dressing Up Your Bedroom

Decorating or redecorating your bedroom? Here's something to sing about. Women find great fashion excitement, these days, in dressing their bedrooms in the glamorous colors now available. Tri-tone Turnabout sheets top the list with new three color harmony in stripes or dots, coordinated in color groups complementary to yellow, blue, lilac and pink.

When you take the new, colorful Tri-tone Turnabout sheet, made by famous Pequot Mills, you have two sheets for the price of one. The trick is that wide old Pequot treats each hem to a different color and creates a change of mood with each turn. For example, turn the bold orange hem to the top for a dramatic effect; next day, turn the soft pastel yellow hem to the top for a cooler, calmer atmosphere.

Then pick up the colors of the theme and use them in lamp shades, slip covers, painted or lacquered tables, and add new paper flowers. And when the bed is turned down at night you have a perfectly decorated room, whichever end of the sheet is up.

Quacks Extort Millions With Phony Cure-alls and Gadgets, Says AMA

Today there are thousands of quacks promising quick cures for every disease known. They extort millions of dollars annually from their gullible patients.

Yet, the quack's promises, cure-alls and gadgets are as phony as a fixed gambling wheel or a "con man's" schemes, said F. J. L. Blasigame, M.D., executive vice president of the American Medical Association. "Healthy people usually laugh at or ignore the quack," he said, "but sick people may grasp at anything that offers a quick cure. Indeed, almost anyone can be fooled unless he knows how quacks operate."

Machines can be a blessing or a curse to medicine. In the hands of a skilled physician, certain machines are useful in arriving at a diagnosis or charting a method of treatment.

But some machines are a threat to your health. Any quack who passes off his device or gadget or "system," as a cure-all is cashing in on your limited knowledge of science.

Doctors of medicine are trained for years in reputable schools and hospitals. They are licensed only after they meet high medical standards. The legitimate doctor does not limit himself to a device or instrument or to any one "system." He does not limit himself to manipulations or adjustments.

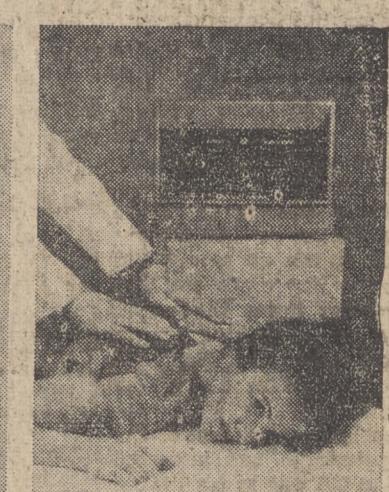

Not so with the quacks. The quack pretends to medical skill. He invents a machine, device or scheme to defraud the public. He advertises that he has the one and only "cure." He may even purchase a phony medical diploma. All the quack needs is someone to believe him. And some sick people are easily impressed.

One alleged "doctor" testified he received four degrees from a "drugless practitioners college" he said he had attended for one year. He claimed to be a doctor of chiropractic, naturopathy, herbal materia medica and electro-therapeutics.

Another "practitioner," who came here from India, advertised that he has at least 15 degrees, including an "honorary M.D." He started the Spectro-Chrome Institute about 1920 and did a flourishing business until the Cap, cape and empty box were supposed to supply "orgone energy" with which a person could cure himself of many afflictions. No such energy exists, but thousands were deluded before this myth was exposed.

This device was supposed to cure cancer by playing silently a recording of "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes." Units sold for up to $500.

The lady in the glistening mask is supposedly being treated via short-wave radio. The machine, according to the gadgeteer who invented it, could neutralize the evil radio vibrations emitted from the diseased area. The device proved to be immensely profitable—for its inventor.

Micro-dynamometer, which sold to chiropractors for as much as $875 each, was billed as a device for diagnosing patients' ills. Actually, the only thing the device was capable of measuring was the moisture of the skin. Federal courts ordered it off the market.

the term ended he was reported to be working again. Some quacks are also licensed to practice a "healing art." Some cultist groups lobby powerfully for license recognition in various states. Well-meaning citizens often help to pass laws permitting limited practice, but this does not protect the public.

A woman chiropractor in Los Angeles was given a chance to demonstrate her alleged ability during tests made at the University of Chicago. According to the university's official report, she claimed she could diagnose illness from a drop of blood of a person who wasn't there. She "diagnosed" that the person had cancer, abnormal blood pressure and a very poor chance to recover. The spot of blood, the university reports, was taken from one of its staff physicians in the best of health.

Fantastic? Not at all. Each year thousands are fooled by quacks using phony machines.

"The American Medical Association," explained Dr. Blasigame, "does not bring charges against these quacks, nor prosecute them. Such action is the responsibility of law enforcement agencies."

You can best protect your health, he advised, by avoiding devices like the ones pictured here and, even more important, by relying on the advice of your family doctor.

Water Development Tour August 7

The Soil Conservation Service and the Extension Service are co-operating with the Steuben County Soil and Water Conservation District on a water development tour on Saturday, August 7.

The tour will assemble in the parking lot behind the County Office Building at 117 East Steuben Street, Bath, at 10:00 a. m. Those making the tour will drive down Route 15 to Campbell and turn right on 333 toward Thurston. Interested persons may join the tour at Campbell at 10:15 a. m.

This is an excellent opportunity to see the proper way to build a pond. The Burgess family is considering developing the area around the lake for commercial recreation, probably campsites.

At 11:30 the tour will leave for the Ralph Northrup farm near Rathbone. The Northrups built a 3-acre pond 20 years ago and have used it as a family recreation center. They have a camp adjacent to the pond and last Fall they cleared wooded swamp land adjacent to the Northrups we can see a site for a 20 acre pond. Bring a basket lunch and enjoy a picnic at the Northrups. After lunch the Steuben County Soil and Water Conservation District will hold their annual meeting. This will include the presentation of an award to the Conservation Farmer and remarks by visiting dignitaries. Professor Bruce Wilkins of Cornell University will be the speaker and he will discuss the possibilities in developing water areas for private and commercial recreation.

The tour will formally adjourn at the Allen farm. Enroute back to Bath, a quick look will be taken at the 10-acre Wolf Lake completed last year by Bill and Mike Weaver. A 1-acre pond recently completed on Ken Ward's farm near Bath will also be seen.

There are potential sites for thousands of acres of water in Steuben County. This tour will give everyone a good chance to study the potential in developing water areas.

MISS BLUE FLAME

LEFKOWITZ TO CRACK DOWN ON WATER POLLUTERS

Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz announced this week he will begin a vigorous legal crackdown on individuals, industrial plants and municipal agencies that pollute the state's water resources with the dumping of sewage and waste into lakes, streams and rivers. He noted that current drought conditions in the State have emphasized the need to end the age-old pollution of the state's water resources.

NO SUBSTANCE TO RARE COIN ENTERPRISE, SAYS LEFKOWITZ

Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz obtained an order this week temporarily barring a convicted arsonist who, as president of a Wall Street brokerage firm, sought to raise $1 million through the sale of stock in a "rare coin" enterprise, and his firm from the securities business in New York State. "Not only is there no substance to the rare coin enterprise, but it is apparent that of the few persons who might benefit are the defendants who would receive salaries of $50,000 the first year," he said.

Leader Training Meetings Set Aug. 4-11 At Bath

Parents play the key role in the behavior of their children even in the years of later childhood (10-14). A current study of family life focuses on the question, "How the Behavior of their Children Related." Highlights of this study have been recorded by Prof. Edward C. Devereux, Jr., a member of the research team in the department of Child Development and Family Relationships at Cornell University.

Dr. Devereux's presentation is part of a Cooperative Extension Service Program designed to promote understanding, "Pre-Adolescents — Why is Each One Different?"

Two Leader Training meetings, August 4th and 11th, will launch this program in Steuben County.
Bath meetings will be held in the Centenary Methodist Church Educational Building, Bath, N. Y. at

To focus on pre-adolescents, the August 4th meeting will open with the film "From 10-12." Home Demonstration and 4-H Departments will lead the discussion.

Community organizations such as Girl and Boy Scouts, Campfire Girls and churches as well as Home Demonstration Units and

Pageant of Steam
At Canandaigua
August 12-16

To the huffing and puffing of forty giant steam traction engines, and the enthusiastic din of an estimated 100,000 onlookers the atomic age will yield to the era when steam was King at the 1965 Pageant of Steam on August 12-15 at Canandaigua, N. Y.

The annual four-day salute to the days when these "dreadnaughts of the soil" tamed rural America is second only to the Mormon Pageant in drawing out-of-state visitors to New York's historic Ontario County. Some 25 acres of exhibits at this resort town's famed Lake-side Roseland Park will recapture the sounds and sights of the late nineteenth and early twentieth Centuries when steam helped shape the economy and destiny of America.

Featured event of the daily 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., steam Pageant is the Grand Parade of 40 huge steam engines, whose intrepid pilots range from seasoned 80-year olds to a young but dauntless school marm — Helen Landers of Danville, N. Y.

A steam callopie, one of only three still operating in the United States, will compete for the youngsters' attention along with hay rides and a ride-in miniature steam railroad.

Railroad buffs, hankering once more for the pungent smell and nostalgic sight of burning soft coal, will be on hand to view these monstrous first "cousins" of the iron horse and to reminisce over operating models of old steam locomotives.

Scores of antique cars including steam-powered automobiles, will converge on Canandaigua for the event, among them a Stanley Steamer reputed to be the oldest in the East. Under one vast exhibit tent will be hundreds of scale models of vintage steam traction engines, all puffing away like their great counterparts. And playing second but no less important role the steam engines will be an extensive array of antique gasoline engines and tractors.

Other Pageant highlights include: the bygone art of steam-powered shingle making; steam grain threshing and wood sawing and a precision-paced team of matched oxen.

The steam-powered vehicles make their annual pilgrimage to Canandaigua from points as distant as Binghamton and Buffalo. They are owned by members of the sponsoring non-profit organization, the 1600-strong New York Steam Engine Association.

The Pageant opens up each morning with the ritualistic "firing up" of the steam engines, closes nightly with "banking of fires" and lowering of the flag. Parking is free and ample, according to Association president and general Pageant chairman, Wallace Wood of Rochester.

On completion of his recruit
